Sing Sing prison made a clean profit of $42,000 for the year ending September 30th. As such institutions go, this is a credit to Sing Sing.

The Democrats of Wisconsin "claim" to be enthusiastic over their prospect of success this fall. What the Democrats lack in strength they make up in cheek.

Not being able to find a person off the State ticket who would take the chairmanship of the Democratic State committee, the Democrats were compelled to make Dr. Anderson chairman.

While the Republicans of the Empire State settle their little differences on short notice and go in shoulder to shoulder for a big victory, the Democrats still continue to quarrel and pave the way for a defeat.

Vennor guesses that there will be severe storms about the 15th and 16th in the southern and western sections of the country. If this is Vennor's guess, it is more than likely that there will be no such storms.

When the Democratic nominees and the Democratic State committee held a meeting in Milwaukee, La Crosse was referred to as the only city in the State where a Democratic daily paper was published. The Madison Democrat will be good natured enough to accept this as a compliment to itself.

THE REPUBLICAN ADDRESS.

The Republican State central committee has issued a timely address to the Republican voters of Wisconsin. Had the address been half as long with all the points boiled down and clearly stated, the effect would have been much more significant and positive. However, it covers excellent ground, and is not ambiguous as to the position of the Republican party. The chief points made by the State committee are these:

It draws attention to the fact that the Republican party is the party of progress, of free and honest elections, and favors the encouragement and protection of American industries.

It does not attack the gentlemen nominated on the other tickets, but briefly defines the difference between the principles of the parties.

In relation to the Greenback question it says: "Having received the verdict in our favor given by the whole American people, we shall not re-open the case on the currency question."

In regard to the question of prohibition, the address endorses the position taken by the Republican State convention. It says the question of submission of the question to the people, is one for the Legislature; that the sentiment favoring submission should reach its end by electing a Legislature favorable to submission. It also says that judging by the experience in other States, and in view of the character of our population, many believe that prohibition would not be effectual to abate the evil of intemperance. "Confirmation of this is found in the fact that but few localities exercise the option now given by law to prohibit the sale of liquor."

The address in speaking of the Democratic party, very pithily says that its platform and its ticket as presented are additional evidences of the old fact that it has no principles of its own which it is willing to avow, though its stealthy purpose is easy to detect. It wants office and power at any sacrifice of independence, consistency or manhood. And the real issue is still between these two great parties—the Republican and Democrat.

The address then asks this question in regard to the Democratic party: Shall this party—the opponent of every step of progress taken for the last quarter of a century—get control? And shall Wisconsin, one of the first and truest of Republican States, now fall out of line and become a Democratic State?

The Republicans of Wisconsin will answer no by a big majority.

HARMONY IN NEW YORK.

The croakers who expected that there would be a confusion of tongues in the Republican State convention of New York, have been disappointed. Because there were Conkling men in New York and those who were opposed to Conkling, it was thought there would be an open fight to the convention, and in the contest for power a bitterness and a bolt which would lead the party to defeat at the next election. Those who have political dyspepsia and borrow comfort in looking at the most gloomy side of life and its affairs, judged that there was a serious out look for the Republicans in New York. Such men do not thoroughly know the Republican party. They did not know the spirit of the New York Republicans. While there were sharp contests in counties between the friends of Mr. Conkling and that branch of the party called Garfield Republicans, all personal animosity died away when that great convention met in New York city. It is true that the so-called Conkling men were in the minority, but notwithstanding this there was no boasting or attempted dictation on the part of the anti-Conkling men, and no growling and bad spirit among the friends of Conkling.

When that convention met, it met like men who were sober-minded and in earnest. The faction known as the Garfield Republicans organized the convention, being in an overwhelming majority, but they were not selfish nor headstrong. When the convention was organized and and the question of nominations came up, they were generous toward the Conkling men and gave them a share of the nominations. This was done that justice might be honored, that peace might be promoted, and that the party might be made strong and successful this fall. It has been many years since the Republicans of the Empire State held a more harmonious convention than that held on the 5th. There were no unmanly methods resorted to by either branch of the party. Mr. Conkling was not there, and Collector Robertson attended to his own business. The nominations were eminently satisfactory to both factions, and men were selected who are men of high character and pronounced ability.

An excellent platform was adopted which will be most cordially approved by the Republicans throughout the State. It paid a touching and fitting tribute to the lamented Garfield, and expressed an implicit confidence in the ability and integrity of President Arthur.

In short, the convention did a splendid day's work. It not only nominated a good and strong ticket and made an excellent and solid platform, but it tendered the new administration the hearty support of a united Republican party in New York, and made a complete victory certain.

EX-SENATOR CONKLING.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6.—A prominent stalwart Republican of New York, who holds a high government position here, and who has just returned from his home in that State, expresses the opinion that ex-Senator Conkling will not go into the cabinet, though he could do so if he desired. Said this official to-night: "Conkling's friends in New York are as devoted to him as ever. I went home to fight for him, and I carried my county and sent a delegate to the State convention that would have stood by him to the last. Conkling is sincerely desirous of harmonizing the Republican party throughout all the country. He is a warm personal friend of President Arthur, and he wants Arthur to make a popular President and succeed himself. Conkling is always ready to make any sacrifice for a friend. I have no doubt that Arthur has already offered Conkling his choice of cabinet positions; but I do not believe he will accept any, for the reason that Conkling knows his entrance in the cabinet would displease a certain element of the Republican party, and would embarrass Arthur, therefore he will not accept it, though there is a very recent precedent for his appointment and acceptance. Notwithstanding circumstances, Conkling is not more unpopular with one element of his party than Blaine is with another. And Conkling's appointment to a cabinet position would not be more distasteful to one portion of the party than Blaine's appointment was to another portion. I don't believe Mr. Conkling cares anything for a cabinet position; but even if he did, I don't believe he would accept one for the reason I have given."

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6—The Democratic senators will hold a caucus to-morrow or Saturday morning to decide what policy they will pursue regarding the election of a President pro tempore of the Senate. It is now known that quite a number, comprising the most liberal and fair-minded members of the accidental majority are in favor of a compromise whereby Senator Anthony of Rhode Island shall be elected President pro tempore, the Democrats be conceded the secretaryship of the Senate, and the committees so arranged that both parties will have fair representation in the chairmanships. If there could be a compromise of the character indicated the Senate would be ready to proceed to regular business on Tuesday next, and unless the President desired them to remain longer, the session could in all probability be terminated by the end of the week. It is expected that all the Democratic Senators, with the exception of Mr. Fair, of Nevada, who is paired, will be present Monday, and the action of the party depends upon what the majority in caucus resolves.

THE ASSASSIN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6.—Guiteau was not arraigned to-day, as had been somewhat expected, and it is not now probable that he will be before the return from New York of Mr. Scoville, of Chicago, his lawyer and counsel, and where he has gone to make arrangements for additional counsel, and, if possible, to secure evidence bearing on the question of insanity. Mr. Scoville, before leaving, stated to the District Attorney that he did not wish to delay the trial a day, but that he desired to be present at the arraignment, if possible, and wished to make further arrangements for counsel. District Attorney Corkhill said that of course the case could not be delayed, but that the mere formal arrangement was not material to the time of the trial, as the arraignment itself, for that matter, could without prejudice to the case be delayed, if necessary, till the very day that the trial should begin, and that he would defer the arraignment until Mr. Scoville returned, unless his absence should be too protracted. Meanwhile, however, his indictment will be formally presented in court by the grand jury. That can be done without the presence of Guiteau, and it probably will be done to-morrow. Mr. Scoville hopes to secure additional counsel in New York and to have one lawyer at least, who is familiar with criminal trials.

UNPARALLELED WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 6.—The cold was less severe to-day than it was yesterday, especially in the middle of the day, but the range of the thermometer is unprecedentedly low for this season of the year, and the sudden change is entirely without parallel in the history of this region. This morning the thermometer in the suburbs stood at 30 degrees. Ice was formed around pools of water and in the water courses. There have now been two frosts, one of them quite severe, and they have done much damage to sweet potatoes and tobacco.

YORKTOWN CELEBRATION.

WASHINGTON, October 6.—The government has issued orders for the necessary arrangements to be made at Yorktown for the accommodation of the several military delegations who are to take part in the centennial commemoration. The extreme right of the town according to the plans decided upon will be held by regulars. The various States represented will be arranged in the order of the time when they were admitted to the Union and they will be separated from the regulars by veterans from State soldiers' homes. The tents of the governors who will participate in the celebration will be suitably finished. It is ordered that a staff officer from each State must be in attendance three days before the camp to locate tents, and arrange troops and must give three hours' notice of arrival. There will be plenty of fuel and water. The grand review by the President will take place Oct. 20.

COSTLY FLAMES.

OSWEGO, Oct. 6.—Fire broke out this morning in the business part of the village of Pulaski, and several buildings on both sides of the main street were burned. A steamer was sent there from this city. The entire business portion of the town is in ruins. Loss over $200,000.

WISCONSIN BAPTISTS.

MADISON, Wis. Oct. 6—The closing session of the Baptist State convention were held to day, and an immense amount of business was done. The following are the officers-elect for the ensuing year:

President—Mason Brayman.

Vice President—The Rev. R. E. Manning.

Recording Secretary—R. Leslie.

Assistant Secretary—J. G. White.

Treasurer—J. Lindsay.

Auditors—J. B. Crosby and A. H. Main.

Beaver Dam was selected as the place for the next meeting of the convention.

Dr. J. Atchison, of Eau Claire was elected to preach the opening sermon with Rev. A. F. Mason as alternate.

A resolution was adopted commending the work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society among the foreign population flocking in unprecedented numbers to this country.

The report of the State board was submitted. It shows that fifteen missionaries report for the year an aggregate of 670 weeks labored, 1,819 sermons preached, 4,494 religious visits, 1,053 prayer meetings attended, 80 hopeful conversions, and 63 baptisms.

The report of Treasurer Lindsay was presented. The receipts for the year were $3,621.11; disbursements, $2,884.09; balance on hand, $736.12.

Appropriate resolutions upon the death of President Garfield and upon the accession of Arthur were adopted.

The convention closed this evening with reports and addresses upon Wayland University and its work. A letter from Charles L. Colby, President of the Wisconsin Central railway, was read, offering $10,000 toward its endowment. Benjamin Boorman, of Mauston, and William Hanchet, of Milwaukee, each pledged themselves to give $1,000.

After prayers by the Rev. Toldman, of Chicago, singing by the choir, farewell address by the Moderator, and the benediction by Dr. Hodge, of Janesville, the convention was adjourned until 1882.

Set Back 42 Years.

"I was troubled for many years with Kidney Complaint, Gravel, &c.; my blood became thin; I was dull and inactive; could hardly crawl about; was an old, worn out man all over; could get nothing to help me, until I got Hop Bitters, and now I am a boy again. My blood and kidneys are all right, and I am as active as a man of 30, although I am 72, and I have no doubt it will do as well for others of my age. It is worth a trial.—Father.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

TOBY TYLER OR TEN WEEKS WITH A CIRCUS, by JAMES OTIS. Illustrated. New York, Harper & Brother. Cloth, $1.00.

The young people will be particularly interested in reading this book, and the older ones will find a good deal in it over which to laugh heartily. The experiences of Little Toby Tyler are quite amusing, and are related in such an attractive style by Mr. Otis as to command the closest attention and deepen the interest of the reader. He made an exceedingly happy hit when he gave the public this charming little volume. It is one of the handsomest juvenile books of the season, being nicely printed, elegantly bound, and finely illustrated. If the young people could get more of such books as this they would have more wholesome fun in reading, and would be wiser and better.

WALTER SAVAGE LANDOR. By Sidney Colvin, Fellow of Trinity College and Slade Professor of Fine Arts, Cambridge. New York: Harper & Bros. 75 cents.

This is another of the charming and instructive series of "English Men of Letters," and one of the best. The author has evidently spared neither time nor labor in collecting facts from every available authoritative source, and with these facts has woven a faithful and attractive showing of this wonderful life and its works. It is no easy task to present in convenient and attractive form the literary activities, extending over sixty-eight years of as strange a life, to neglect nothing of importance in the busy and checkered career, and to justly weigh out praise and criticism for this multiplicity of words and acts. Difficult as has been the task it has been the task it has been grandly accomplished, and instead of being a mere encyclopedic presentation of the subject matter, the whole is clothed with an attractiveness which makes the volume one which shall find a hearty welcome at every fireside where authors and books are loved. Running through the little volume are well chosen citations from Landor's own pen giving the reader ample chance to test by his own judgment the justice of the biographers estimate of this strange author. It proves a charming and interesting volume for the home circle, while at the same time it proves a valuable addition to the library of the scholar and the critic.

FRANKLIN SQUARE SONG COLLECTION. Songs for schools and homes. Selected by J. P. McCaskey. New York: Harper & Bros. Paper 40 cents.

One of the very best, if not the best, collection of old and familiar songs and hymns ever published in this country is the Franklin Square Collection. We notice in it many old favorites, many which have stood the test of time, and are still good. Each song is set to music. Upon every page will be found numerous notes and paragraphs most appropriate for the study of young readers. This is a most excellent feature of the book, inasmuch as it educates the young pupil into the spirit of music. Singing, to be effective, should reflect the soul of the singer, as well as the voice-making melody. The more the singer knows of the author and the circumstances which inspired the song, the more likelihood there is that the sweetest strains of music will be brought out. It is this feeling and knowing every inspiration that our patriotic songs of army life, when sung by undrilled men about the camp fires or upon the march, excite and interest more than when sung by trained voices, which simply follow the notes. The collection contains 200 private songs and hymns, ballads, patriotic, sentimental, and devotional, together with many songs for the little folks.

THE NEW TESTAMENT of Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Translated out of the Greek, being the version set forth A. D. 1611, compared with the most ancient authorities and revised 1881. New York, Harper & Bros. $2.

This edition of the Revised New Testament, is one of the most beautiful printed by the American press. It is a fine volume of 652 pages, and is printed with large, clear type, on heavy paper, and is substantially bound. It is just the book that will delight people whose eyes are dim. In typography and the highest art as exhibited in a beautiful book, it rivals the costly Oxford editions. The suggestions of the American revisers are given in foot notes.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

BEGINNING SCHOOL.

Now that the schools are beginning again all over the land, we think, says St. Nicholas, there probably are many mothers who will appreciate the following little poem:

To-day the house is stiller than it's ever been before,
There's nothing in disorder from the ceiling to the floor;
E'en the chairs around the room
Seem to share the general gloom,
As they stand in sad precision just so far apart—no more.

The cushions look forbidding as they're placed against the wall,
The very chair-backs seem alone, they stand so stiff and tall;
And I feel inclined to cry,
And to set them all awry.
What can it be about the house that seems to chill us all?

I'd like to scatter every toy now ranged before my sight,
From merry "Punch and Judy," in their gauze and tinsel bright,
To the little dog asleep
In a mournful, woolly heap,
On the half-torn, fingered picture-books, once visions of delight.

That worn old doll, dejected, brings a picture fair and sweet,
Of bloom, and warmth, and songs of birds the merry world to greet,
And a little child at play
On a happy summer's day,
With these toys in gay confusion scattered round about her feet.

And the sunlight, sifting down, shone upon a little head,
And kissed the curls of golden brown and turned them bronze and red;
And the doll was held as fast
On the little lassie's breast,
For both were soundly sleeping as the sunshine lightly sped.

And as I look I do not think the wealth of many lands
Could make me harm the poor old doll once clasped by baby hands.
This artless, limp concern
As I've often longed to burn
Is sacred to those baby days where love forever stands.

Ah, well, we all must live and learn; year follows year by rule,
And as one may not stay a child, one dare not be a fool;
And so the world goes on
From rise till set of sun:
To-day our baby takes her turn in starting off to school.

THRILLING ADVENTURE WITH A BEAR.

A citizen of New-York sends to the Evening Post of that city the following copy of a private letter from a friend in Colorado, which letter was not written for publication:

"My Dear Friend: I have just returned from my first venture out of doors. My stride is short, and my pace is not yet swift, but I have managed to get a few yards from my cabin and return again, and I feel able now to tell you fully of my very recent unpleasantness with the bear. I was out prospecting and had just left T., and was walking unconcernedly at the base of a very high cliff. As I stepped aside to avoid a tree, I beheld to my surprise a bear standing motionless and looking as demure as the obelisk. She had not yet seen me, so I attempted to retreat without disturbing her, but, after moving back a short distance, I looked and saw the bear in the spot I had just vacated, standing on her haunches looking at me with a countenance which lacked amiability. I did not then know its sex, or that she had two interesting cubs, but supposed it to be an old male Bruin, that would use the same discretion as myself, and retire in good order as soon as his curiosity was satisfied. Yet I hurried away, and, soon hearing the brush cracking, I stopped to listen, hoping to discover that she, too, was running from me, but the great noise made by the dashing water in the creek over the rocks prevented my distinguishing her direction for a moment or two. When I saw her it was too late; she was bearing down upon me with all her speed. I saw at a glance that I was in for it, as there was no tree near enough that I could climb to escape her, so, in the absence of anything else to do and to fill up the time, I ran down the hill with my best speed. Of course she could run three rods to my one, and in looking back to take in the situation I caught my toe in some underbrush, and turned a somerset or two. The impetus of the bear caused her to run over and fifteen feet beyond me before she could stop. I had fallen upon my face, with my head quartering up the hill, so I threw my arms over my head and waited for the bear to proceed in her own way, having read how Nimrods have been treated when they "played 'possum." In a moment she stood over me, her head about over my shoulder. She growled a little and then very delicately took hold of my shoulder-blade, turning me over on my back. Then she walked round me and took hold of my left leg at the hip-joint, fortunately taking the contents of my pocket (consisting of ten sharp metallic cartridges and my glasses for examining stone) in her mouth, which made her a good mouthful; nevertheless her four tusks went into my flesh, one cutting a gash an inch and a half long and directly across the femoral artery, but not deep enough to sever it. She then left me for a few moments and returned with redoubled energy; catching me by the right thigh, she sat back on her haunches and shook me terribly. It was then I first saw her cubs; they came whining around, not seeming to enjoy the sport. She would go to them a second and return to me and give me another shake. Thus she caught my right thigh three times, once just below the knee, taking the entire leg in her mouth back of her tusks, shaking me as one would a dishcloth. In this last bite she broke the skin in but one place, leaving marks, however, of the other three tusks, and pressing so hard that the flesh was started from the bone, so that the doctor thought at one time the wound would have to be opened, and from this I suffered most. Again she returned to her cubs, and thinking she had gotten through with me I got upon my feet, but had no sooner done so than she came at me again. I was then near a large tree, and having thoroughly tested the 'possum tactics without success, I determined to abandon them. I dodged round the tree. She made a fearful plunge at me, but, like the priest and the Levite, "went by on the other side." Thus I eluded her several times, but from exhaustion, my right leg torn to pieces, and faint from loss of blood, I stumbled and fell. Again she was upon me; I moved my left hand toward my small sheath knife; she caught my arm just above the wrist, fracturing the bone. This seemed to satisfy her; the cubs were frightened by our performance around the tree, and to her young I doubtless owe her withdrawal and perhaps my life. At last I got upon my feet; the bear was not to be seen. I took a few steps to try my strength, and after a hurried inventory of my condition, I found my right arm uninjured and my left leg comparatively so. I could bear my weight upon my right leg, but had little use of it, and the slightest turn of the foot or unevenness of the ground rendered it entirely useless. The camp had been moved that morning, and I supposed it to be near the mouth of the creek where I first met the bear, so I struck out diagonally toward the creek. My progress was very slow, the ground being covered with brush and fallen timber. I had to rest on every log I came to, then throw my well foot over and lift the injured over with my hands. This exertion caused the blood to flow more freely. I tied my suspenders round my leg, but was too weak to draw them tight enough to stop the blood from flowing. I could go only a few steps at a time; my shoes were full of blood, my trousers thoroughly saturated. At last I reached the creek, but a few hundred yards from where I started. I hoped to find an easy descent to the water; here the bank was too high, so I trudged on. A burning thirst came upon me, but as yet no place to get down the banks. My progress becoming slower, my wounds beginning to be terribly sore, I could not stand nor crawl, so I rolled down the bank. Where I lay the banks were high. As I neared the bottom I discovered a perpendicular drop of six feet. I could not get back, and must go on, so I let go. The shock was fearful, and I remained exhausted for some time before I could roll to the water only a few feet off. When I reached the water I lay on my face and drank. After drinking and bathing my head I was sufficiently revived to consider the problem of moving on. To retrace my steps was impossible, so I was compelled to slide from rock to rock down the creek. At last I found a shelving stone in the bank upon which I crept out, and finally reached the top of the bank, thoroughly exhausted. Here I stretched myself out, thinking to spend there my last night on earth. My only salvation was in being discovered by my friends, and that quickly. While in this condition I heard some one breaking stones. I raised my head, called, but no answer. I heard it again; again I called. Hearing it again, I raised myself upon my arms, and, fifty feet from and twenty-five feet below me I saw T. I called, but the roaring water drowned my voice; I threw all the sticks and stones I could reach at him, but they fell far short of him. Soon he came directly under me and looked up. I raised my bloody hands; he saw me and I was saved. This consciousness caused me to lose my remaining strength, and I fell. Young L., whose brother was killed by a bear a year ago, soon joined T., having already seen my bloody trail in the creek and upon the logs. They came to me and brought water in their hats. I drank great quantities of it. They endeavored to move me by each getting under my arms; I could not stand it. T. then took me upon his back—this was worse. So one went to the camp, a quarter of a mile off, and brought a huge overcoat; in this they placed me, buttoned it up, and running a long green pole beneath the buttons, carried me to camp. During the night my wounds were bathed in cold water, and T. started for Red Cliff at dawn next day, reaching there at ten p. m. He sent a physician to me, who reached me the following day, and at once began a good day's sewing upon me. You know the rest. I am improving gradually. I don't think it was a very large bear, but when she was biting and shaking me I judged by her strength that her health was good. Hoping that you may never meet her, but only have to deal with the less hurtful ones of Wall street, I remain your affectionate friend,

"E. O. B."

Miss Anna Parnell's Race With a Sheriff.

Mr. Parnell's obstructive performances in the Senate are quite eclipsed by those of his sister in the field. The Irish papers contain highly interesting accounts of the part played by this lady in the evictions which took place a few days ago on the Kingston estates at Mitchelstown, County Cork. The Land League, finding the tenants unable to hold their ground against the landlords, sent Miss Anna Parnell to their assistance. Last Thursday that lady, accompanied by several local "lady Leaguers," appeared on the Kingston estate just as a small army of cavalry, infantry, constabulary, engineers, commissariat and hospital staff was about to start on a fresh expedition against the anti-renters. Miss Parnell and her fair auxiliaries hung on the rear of the Queen's forces, and as soon as the Sheriff and his supporters arrived in the rebellious district and proceeded to carry out the law, set vigorously to work to defeat them. Every house was barricaded and had to be broken open, when the rent was in each case immediately paid, in spite of the advices, entreaties and reproaches of Miss Parnell. Her interference caused so much delay and excitement that at length she was "put away from the door" of one Michael Haggerty, whom she was exhorting to hold out and keep the rent. Upon this she at once wrote and handed to Mr. Eaton, the magistrate commanding the expedition, a protest in which she said she was commissioned by "a society" to attend "in the interest of evicted tenants, and demanded liberty to do so." Mr. Eaton answered that he would not allow her Majesty's writ to be obstructed. This episode over, the column resumed its march upon the house of one William Roche. Let the local reporter speak: "It was amusing to see the race that was made between the Sheriff, the police and Miss Parnell to see who would reach Roche's house first. Miss Parnell skipped small streams, but was beaten by a few yards, and, when she arrived, she was put out by a policeman." It is further recorded that "she journeyed across fields and ditches, and ran, walked and jumped for nearly four hours." That race between the Irish Anna and the sub-Sheriff must have been almost as well worth seeing as the classic "sprint" between the Arcadian Atlanta and Melanion.—London Globe.

—A few weeks ago Lieutenant von Geyso, a young Prussian officer of remarkable promise, was shot to death by one of his comrades in a wholly unnecessary encounter. So popular was this gallant and amiable youth in Schwedt, the garrison town where his regiment was stationed, that hundreds of its civil inhabitants followed his body to its premature grave. One afternoon, during some regimental gymnastic exercise, Von Geyso refused a leap that had been taken by several of his fellow officers. Three of these, more in jest than earnest, shouted out, "You are a coward." Von Geyso, having given frequent proofs of his personal courage, took no notice of these bantering exclamations; but, a day or two later, finding himself shunned at mess by his comrades, he consulted his brother-in-law, Baron von Richtofen, as to the proper course to pursue, and by this gentleman's advice challenged the three officers to meet him in succession and exchange two shots. No serious consequences ensued from the first and second encounters; but Geyso's third opponent shot him through the heart at the first fire, killing him upon the spot.

IRRITATION OF THE SCALP

An Authentic Testimony.

Gentlemen: For five years I have been greatly troubled with dandruff, with a severe itching of the scalp, and my hair falling out. I have tried almost every known remedy, all proving worthless. Seeing BURNETT'S COCOAINE and BURNETT'S KALLISTON advertised, I procured a bottle of each, and am happy to state that the dandruff is completely removed, and no itching remains.

Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY
SOLD IN
AND SPERMATORRHŒA.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will stop emissions and restore vigor in the worst cases,) $7. Sent by mail, sealed, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

(Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

The Modern Hat-Rack.

No candid man can examine the modern hat-rack without feeling that it is explicable only on the theory of its demoniacal origin. Indeed, the human mind is so constituted that it instinctively refers all the contrivances ostensibly intended for holding hats to the devil, and most of us would confess a belief that the devil makes hat-racks did we not fear the derision of so-called philosophers. Is it reasonable to suppose that any human being seriously designed for a good purpose the combination of brass rods which is to be seen above the tables in certain restaurants? Ostensibly these rods are intended for the temporary storage of hats; but when a man tries to put his hat on a brass-rod rack it instantly falls down again, and brings with it two other hats and a pile of newspapers, the former of which upset the caster, while the latter diffuse themselves over the butter and the beefsteak. Nothing but the theory of the active influence of evil spirits can account for this style of hat-rack, and yet it is really inferior in ingenious malignity to the common hat-rack of private houses.

This diabolical contrivance is always placed in the dark corner of the hall—a fact which shows that evil spirits are concerned not merely in manufacturing but in placing it. The consequence is that the visitor gropes for it, and so doing infallibly knocks down the overcoats and hats which are already hung upon it. When he is able to perceive it with his eyes, he can find no satisfactory peg. The malicious manufacturer never fails to make the pegs so short that to induce a hat to balance itself upon one of them is a task requiring both time and dexterity. Not content with this, the manufacturer places the pegs so close together that it is impossible for two adjoining pegs to support each its own hat at the same time. The ordinary visitor learns this truth only by sad experience. He persists in trying to hang his hat on the peg next to that which bears the hat of the head of the house, and it is only after he has knocked the original hat down with his own hat, and then knocked his own hat down by trying to restore the other to its original place, that he perceives the fell purpose of the maker of hat-racks.

Only the ingenuity of demons could have combined an umbrella stand with a hat-rack. The object of this unholy combination is obviously to tempt the visitor to deposit his overcoat on the protruding handles of half a dozen umbrellas and canes. The prudent man rarely attempts to hang his overcoat on a peg, for he knows that in so doing he will knock down all the hats. Moreover, it is the practice of the satanic manufacturer to put in the pegs so loosely that the weight of an overcoat when put on any one of them will pull it out. He therefore folds his overcoat up and lays it gently on the umbrella handles. Instantly these delusive supports give way. A rattling avalanche of canes and umbrellas strikes on the marble floor, and the betrayed overcoat gathers to itself all the available dirt that has accumulated in the bottom of the umbrella stand, while the startled and indignant visitor breaks into language which might well fill listening demons with fiendish joy. So notorious has the character of the combined hat-rack and umbrella-stand become that wise men never meddle with it, but uniformly place their folded overcoats on the floor in a corner of the hall, and put their hats on their overcoats.

Now, if we attempt to account for the hat-rack on any theory which excludes the supernatural, we make a complete failure. It is in vain for us to ask ourselves why men should make an article of furniture that can accomplish no conceivable end except the exasperation of mankind. The moment we assume that hat-racks are the work of evil spirits they become coherent and intelligible. Is it not, then, a pity that the abolition of faith in evil spirits leaves us without any method of accounting for the existence of hat-racks, and compels us to say that we do not know, and cannot conceive, for what purpose they are made?—N. Y. Times.

The Man with the Umbrella.

Why it is that the public do not look kindly upon a man carrying an umbrella in a hot day is a mystery yet to be solved, but the fact is they do not, and that not one man in a hundred has the moral courage to carry one. Yesterday when an eminent and dignified citizen coming back from his dinner turned into Griswold street with an umbrella over his head he was accosted with:

"Been raining down your way?"

"No, sir!"

"Going to?"

"No, sir!"

"Then you carry the umbrella to keep the flies off?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, that's a good plan, and all soft men ought to practice it."

The next man had a grin on his face as he called out:

"What's that for?"

"To keep the sun off."

"What do you want to keep the sun off for?"

"Might get sunstruck."

"Suppose you did?"

"Suppose you mind your own business, sir?"

The next one presumed upon his long friendship to halt the man with the umbrella and whisper:

"Pretty sharp in you, old fellow—keep the bulge towards your creditors and they can't see you!"

Other men told him that wearing a poultice on the head would dispense with the umbrella, and others said if he was afraid of his ears being tanned he should fasten a fan on each side of his hat. Not one single man took him by the hand and encouraged him, and when he reached the post-office he was so discouraged that he lowered his shade and used it to punch the ribs of a boy who had begun to sing:

"He's a flat—he's a fetter,
And he lugs an old umbrella."

Why She Couldn't Go Any Faster.

In the bustle attending the departure of a boat from the iron pier at Coney Island on Monday evening, while the strong-voiced young men were calling out, "All aboard," a very fat woman approached, her reddened face bedewed with perspiration. Although it was evident that she was making the best speed she could, the young men shouted to her to hurry up, or she would miss the boat. She suddenly stopped and said: "I am hurrying up all I can; I guess if you weighed 325 pounds and was laced as tight as I am, you couldn't get along any faster, either." Then she resumed her progress and missed the boat.—N. Y. Sun.

—A Cincinnati bride has been sued for $35, which the plaintiff claims she obtained from him by fraud. She promised to marry him, and he gave her the money to buy a wedding dress; and she did buy one, but wore it at her marriage with another man.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Ned Buntline (E. Z. C. Judson) lives in the little town of Stamford, in the Catskill Mountains. He is about sixty years old, short and fat, walks with a limp and a cane, and wears blue clothes and brass buttons.

—Walt Whitman does not love nature's walks as well as those in the city. He says: "I can no more get along without houses, civilization, aggregations of humanity, meetings, hotels, theaters, than I can get along without food."

—James Gordon Bennett is said to be a very unassuming, pleasure-palled, youngish-looking man, whose only occupation is to kill time. In everything he does he shows most extraordinary consideration for the pleasure and profit of others.

—The memoir of Bryant, upon which Mr. Parke Godwin is engaged, will contain several poems that have never appeared in print. The work will not be very lengthy, as there are but few incidents in Bryant's life that are worth relating.

—The late George Borrow, the well-known writer on gypsy life, was an accomplished pugilist. Lamenting, when he was verging toward sixty, that he was childless, he said very mournfully: "I shall soon not be able to knock a man down, and I have no son to do it for me."

—Rose Terry Cook's home is in Winsted, Conn. It is an old-fashioned country house, with antique furniture rifled from many a garret; everything extremely simple, but full of cozy comfort. She not only writes poetry about her garden, but she gets up before sunrise to work in it. Her roses are her especial pride; but she takes almost the entire care of all the flowers, and they repay her richly. She is a famous cook.

—The retirement of Mrs. Maxwell (Miss Braddon) from novel-writing, in order to devote herself to the drama, has been announced, after writing forty successful novels, some of them very popular—"Lady Audley's Secret" and "Aurora Floyd," for example. Mrs. Maxwell has resolved to turn her attention exclusively to writing for the stage. It is Mr. Maxwell's boast that his wife realized a handsomer fortune by writing fiction than any living novelist.

—Mr. Carlyle, it is known, had no liking for the youth of the time, and has even mentioned modern young men as "the climax of detestability." One day last year an accomplished and well-bred young literary man from Vienna called upon the Chelsea sage with a pleasant letter of introduction from Mr. Tennyson. Mr. Carlyle did not ask his visitor to be seated; he read the letter standing, and then in his harshest tones asked: "Well, what do you want?" The young Viennese, somewhat aghast at this sort of reception, made a courteous response about his desire to pay his homage to the master mind, etc. "Ugh!" grunted the old gentleman, "you'd better be doing something wiser."

HUMOROUS.

—The lilies of the field "toil not, neither do they spin," but they have their blow out just the same.—Boston Times.

—"Do you know who built the ark?" asked a Sunday-school teacher of a little street Arab; and the little fellow replied: "Naw!"—Cambridge Tribune.

—Yu kant hurt or help a human being without doing the same thing to yureself—yu kant even do it to a dog.—Josh Billings.

—Jones, on hearing a band of "picked musicians" torturing a tune at a recent concert, said: "Ah, I understand; they were picked before they were ripe!"—Boston Score.

—The Baltimore American says "People deal unjustly with the watermelon." Just so, but the watermelon is fully able to return the compliment and generally does.—New Haven Register.

—Why is a stylish girl like a rifle range? Because—oh, dear, we wish we hadn't begun this one—because—oh, shackey, you know; because—boo-hoo, boo-hoo! Because there is a bang at one end and a bustle at the other.—Burlington Hawkeye.

—Song of the American mosquito on his arrival in London, "Fee fi fo fum, I smell the blood of an Englishman; I must and I will and I shall have some." And he suits his action to his song.—New Haven Register.

—Maid of Detroit, ere we wed,
Tell me, can you bake good bread?
Is the coffee that you brew
Strong and clear, of amber hue?
Do you ever comb your hair
Where the weird hash you prepare?
But first of all, pray tell me, sweet,
Are you cursed with frigid feet?

—Free Press.

—A Danbury bootblack was in South Norwalk when the train went through there on its way to Hartford with the Nation's military dignitaries. "Did you see General Sherman?" asked a citizen this morning while having a shine. "No; was he looking for me?" was the response. The citizen was shocked.—Danbury News.

—An Iowa grocer who was annoyed by his townsmen sitting on his counter rigged up a little buzz-saw to run by foot power and to work through the top of the counter at a favorite spot. He anticipated a heap of fun, but the very first man who felt the ragged teeth biting into him hopped down and broke the grocer's neck.—Detroit Free Press.

—He came up a little late, stopped in without ringing, and, striding softly into the parlor, dropped into an easy chair with the careless grace of a young man who is accustomed to the programme. "By Jove!" he said to the figure sitting in dim obscurity on the sofa—"by Jove! I thought I was never going to see you alone again. Your mother never goes away from the house nowadays, does she, Minnie?" "Well, not amazingly frequently," cheerfully replied the old lady from the sofa. "Minnie's away so much of her time now I have to stay in."—Goshen Democrat.

A Railroad in the Tree-Tops.

It may not be known outside of the neighborhood where it is situated, but it is nevertheless a fact, that in Sonoma County we have an original and successful piece of railroad engineering and building that is not to be found in the books. In the upper part of this county, near the coast, may be seen an actual road-bed in the tree-tops. Between the Clipper mills and Stuart's Point, where the road crosses a deep ravine, the trees are sawed off on a level and the timber and ties laid on the stumps. In the center of the ravine mentioned two huge redwood trees, standing side by side, form a substantial support, and they are cut off seventy-five feet above the ground, and cars loaded with heavy saw-logs pass over them with as much security as if it were framed in the most scientific manner.—*Petaluma (Cal.) DR. PRICE'S REPUTATION!

Has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it; does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

BRIEFLETS.

—Uncle Tom's Cabin, to-night.

—The cadet corps of the Guards meet to-morrow night at the armory and an enrollment will then be made.

—J. J. Boyd is about to move his tailoring establishment into one of the stores in Randall Williams' new block.

—Michael Holloran gave bonds in the Municipal court this morning to keep the peace toward the people of the State.

—M. A. Ott has removed his harness shop from Bates' block to the store owned by James Menzies, on North Main street.

—The Orpheus club are making great preparations for their concert on the 14th inst, in which Miss Carrington is to be the leading attraction.

—The show windows of the stores are literally show windows now, much of the space being taken up by various lithographs of coming amusements.

—The Guards will have the formal opening of their armory some time during the first week in November. The furniture is now all ready to be put in place.

—H. W. Hathorn the blacksmith, has purchased of John Tuckwood his shop on Corn Exchange block where his many friends and customers will find him in the future.

—The running team of Beloit's No. 2, hose company gives out that is ready to run against any team that took part in the Freeport tournament. Here's a chance for more glory.

—To-night Anthony and Ellis' Uncle Tom's Cabin company are to appear at the Opera house. The play is one with which all are familiar, and the company which presents it is acknowledged to be a superior one.

—The Court street church choir is being organized for another conference year, and its make-up will be about the same as last year, Mrs. St. John having been secured as leader and Miss Julie Wilson as organist.

—Mrs. O. B. Ford will sell to-morrow afternoon at half-past one o'clock, at the Corn Exchange, her horse, buggy and harness, at auction. Now is your time to get a good family horse at your own price. Remember the hour and day.

—Rev. S. P. Loomis is to preach in All Souls' church next Sunday evening, and it is thought arrangements can be made by which his presence can be secured occasionally, at least, for other Sunday evening services, in the future.

—W. L. Gookins is moving his jewelry stock into the store opposite the post office, which he will occupy jointly with Mr. Bryant, the agent for W. W. Kimball, of Chicago. The interior of the store has been finely fitted up, and plate glass will soon be put into the front, improving it greatly.

—W. Davis, the proprietor of the St. Louis Bar, has returned to the city, and is trying to settle up his troubles. In looking over his assets and liabilities, he find that he has no bill against "the author of the article in last evening's Gazette," and in fact never had. It is no wonder that Davis has financial troubles if he doesn't keep his accounts more accurate than that.

—In the Municipal court to-day the case of H. H. Blanchard vs, E. L. Clyde is being considered, the trial being by jury. In the trial of the case in Justice Prichard's court Clyde won, and now it is being tried on the appeal, Blanchard not being satisfied with the decision in the lower court. He claims from Clyde a commission of $50 for selling a house and lot, on the ground that Clyde had made him his agent for that puposo. Clyde on the other hand, claims that the property was sold without any of Blanchard's help.

—At the business meeting of the Janesville Guards held last evening, Sergeant Thor Judd and Corporal O. C. McLean were authorized to organize and officer the cadets, and terms were arranged for letting the cadets use the armory for drill. Sergeant Judd presented the company with a picture of the late President, to hang upon the walls of the armory. Six new members were elected: H. H. Hoyt, George Bates, Charles Johnson, John Pool, Bert Vaughn, John O'Grady. Captain Smith read the orders concerning the mourning emblems to be used, and also read a letter from Capt. Burk, of Atlanta accompanying the gift of his portrait. An amendment to the by-laws was introduced, and will be acted on next month, by which any member absenting himself from annual inspection, unless duly excused, will be subject to a fine of $5.

VALIANT VETERANS.

They Meet to Consider the Forming of an Organization.

Last evening in accordance with the published call a meeting of the soldiers of the late war was held at the city council chamber, which was quite largely attended, the purpose being to take preliminary steps to effect some suitable organization. Captain H. A. Smith called the meeting to order, and Major S. C. Cobb was chosen chairman, and R. W. King, secretary.

The talk which ensued was strongly in favor of organizing a post of the Grand Army of the Republic, and a committee was appointed to investigate and report concerning such an organization, said committee consisting of Captain H. A. Smith, J. A. Spencer, Colonel W. B. Britton, Al. Bintliff and Dr. Henry Palmer.

The following enrollment was made of those old soldiers and sailors present, in favor of organizing a veterans' association:

C. H. Lee,
J. D. Tramblie,
J. A. Spencer,
A. M. Pratt,
J. C. Metcalf,
E. G. Harlow,
J. W. Belton,
H. W. Perrigo,
L. P. Adams,
W. B. Britton,
H. A. Smith,
S. C. Cobb,
Henry Palmer,
Jerome Howland,
J. T. Wilcox,
J. B. Green,
Ethan Allen,
B. R. Hilt,
F. F. Stevens,
A. C. Denning,
Martin Halverson,
William Berrell,
L. Tramblie,
Capt. Barry,
Patrick Delaney,
R. W. King,
E. W. Hilt,
Richard Skelly,
T. T. Croft,
Ambrose Pierson,
Al. Bintliff,
J. M. Strickland,
Charles Schottle,
W. B. Brayton,
Chris Yaeger,
Joseph Bear,
P. S. Fenton,
L. K. Alden,
J. G. Wray,
C. A. Carter,
J. H. Bliss,
A. W. Webb,
Leonard House,
B. H. Baldwin,
David Conger.

It was decided to meet again at the same place, Friday evening October 21, at which time the committee is expected to report, and further steps will be taken toward the organization of these veterans.

Bogus Certificates.

It is no vile drugged stuff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign roots, barks, &c., and puffed up by long, bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well-known valuable remedies, that furnishes its own certificates by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines.—Exchange. See another.

PERSONAL.

—City Marshal Hogan was able to be out to-day.

—Attorney Street is spending the day in Milwaukee.

—Superintendent William Jones, of Clinton, was in the city to-day.

—County Clerk Morgan and wife have returned from their Eastern trip.

—L. Wyler, who has been on the sick list for a week past, is able to be out again.

—Mrs. Hicks, from Milwaukee, is in the city, visiting her friend Mrs. J. B. Hyzer.

—John Chapman, the McCormick reaper man, has been spending a few days in and about Elgin.

—Charles Atwood favors the Gazette with some late copies of St. Louis papers, while paying a brief visit to that city.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stearns have returned from Finley, O., where Mrs. Stearns has been visiting friends for some time.

—Mrs. Horace McElroy expects to start to-morrow for the East to visit friends. Miss Lucy Conger will accompany her as far as Chicago.

—A postal card has been received from Miss Ellen A. King who is now on her way to California to make her home with her brother there. The postal is dated Omaha, Tuesday morning last, and simply states that she has completed that much of her journey in safety.

—Charles A. Carter and his bride arrived here last evening from their wedding trip to the East, and have taken up their abode at the Grand hotel. They are heartily welcomed to Janesville, and are the recipients of many earnest and honest congratulations and well wishes.

Many lose their beauty from the hair falling or fading. Parker's Hair Balsam supplies necessary nourishment, prevents falling and grayness, and is an elegant dressing.

TRAIN ROBBERS.

A freight car which arrived here from the south last night was found to have been broken into somewhere on the route. Some cases of boots and shoes for A. Richardson & Bro. were broken open and their contents gobbled by the thieves. Some hats shipped to E. T. Foote, were also taken, and some sugar in the car was spilled and wasted. The goods stolen amount to about $142. No clue to the thieves or the property has yet been found.

An old lady writes us: "I am 65 years old and was feeble and nervous all the time, when I bought a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic. I have used a little more than one bottle and feel as well as at 30, and am sure that hundreds need just such a medicine. See advertisement.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 55 degrees above; at 1 o'clock A. M. to-day at 52 degrees above; at 7 o'clock A. M. at 57 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock P. M. at 74 degrees above. Partly cloudy.

The indications to-day are, partly cloudy weather, and rain, southerly winds, lower barometer, and stationary or higher temperature.

Household Words.

James Pearson, 23 Sixth Street, Buffalo, says: "I have used your SPRING BLOSSOM for myself and family, and think it invaluable as a household remedy, for regulating the bowels, liver and kidneys. I shall never be without it." Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents.
Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

A PRINCELY EXHIBIT.

T. A. Chapman, the merchant prince of Milwaukee, has the first place in the exposition, as he has also the first place in his line of business. The visitor entering the exposition structure is favorably impressed with what he has come to see, for the first display to greet his eyes is that of T. A. Chapman. Mr. Chapman's cottage of plate glass and bronze-finished woods is the largest and costliest exhibitor's structure in the building, and contains such a wealth of rare silks, furs, laces and feather goods as would amply repay any visitor were nothing else to be seen. No one could be foolhardy enough to attempt a description of the contents of Chapman's display; to mention simply a few representative articles and their value must suffice. In corners of the front are the Venus of Milo and the Dying Gladiator, two of the most famous pieces of statuary in the world, in bronze. Between them are rich Satsuma and other vases, one being valued at $350. Gracefully thrown over a beautiful vase is a point lace shawl of the most rare and delicate workmanship, valued at $900, and near by a hand-wrought tablier of black satin and gold, valued at $350. A Parisian suit of black lace and garnet silk, elegantly put together, cost $350, and a suit of purple velvet and silk is worth $275, A seal sacque, surrounded by leopards, otter, beaver, martin, and ermine, is valued at $350, with companions as cheap as $200. To publish the entire list of goods in Chapman's display would be but to repeat the large figures representing values and the strongest adjectives to describe richness, elegance, quality and style of design. All these goods are taken from Mr. Chapman's store—were not borrowed, or hired, or brought here simply for this exposition, to be returned at its close. The display is a miniature slice from his store and represents precisely the style of man Mr. Chapman is, and the styles of goods he handles.—Evening Wisconsin.

ARE THESE MEN
LIARS?

Read what some of them say of Hale's Cough Cordial. These are not bogus testimonials, signed by imaginary people from unheard of towns, but from well known citizens whom you know would not allow their names to be used if it were not a medicine of real merit and just as represented.

REV. M. G. HODGE.

Janesville, Wis.—I have made use of Dr. Hale's Cough Cordial for an affection of the throat, and regard it as an excellent remedy.

Hon. JAMES ROSS,

Grand Lecturer I. O. G. T. of Wisconsin.—From a feeling of gratitude, I take great pleasure in giving this voluntary testimony to the efficacy of Hale's Cough Cordial in easily and pleasantly curing a persistent cough and catarrh.

Dr. C. L. MARTIN,

Janesville, Wis.—Having suffered long from a sore throat, I was prevailed upon to try Dr. Hale's Cough Cordial, and received more benefit from it than any other medicine I ever used.

Hon. FRANK LELAND

Consul to Canada.—I regard it as one of the best Cough medicines ever prepared.

E. O. KIMBERLEY,

Brodhead, Wis.—We have never known of so good an article for a cold or cough as Hale's Cough Cordial.

D. R. STOUT,

Janesville, Wis.—I have recovered from the difficulty, and give the whole credit to Hale's Cough Cordial. The world has never produced a surer remedy for a cough.

GUSTAVUS STONE,

Beloit, Wis.—I have used Hale's Cough Cordial in my family for the past two years, and I consider it one of the most valuable remedies for bronchial, throat and lung difficulties.

E. M. JACKS,

With J. V. Farwell & Co., Chicago.—A friend here in the city had been cured of a worse cough than mine by Hale's Cough Cordial, and insisted on my trying it. I did try it, and less than one bottle cured me perfectly.

J. W. MATHEWS.

Milton, Wis.—I purchased a bottle of Hale's Cough Cordial, and the first dose satisfied me that I had found the right kind of medicine. My cough entirely ceased, my voice is strong again—in fact, I consider myself a well man.

ASTHMA Quickly and Permanently CURED

Dr. Stinson's Asthma Remedy is unequaled as a positive Alterative and Cure for Asthma and Dyspepsia, and all their attendant evils. It does not merely afford temporary relief, but is a permanent cure. Mrs. B. F. Lee, of Belmore, O., says of it: "I am surprised at the speedy effects of your remedy. It is the first medicine in six years that has loosened my cough and made expectoration easy. I now sleep all night without coughing." If your druggist does not keep it, send for treatise and testimonials to
